Code of Conduct

1. Scope

This document defines the behavioral standards expected of all participants in the Radix DAO, including:

- Governance Participants (token holders participating in governance)
- Working Group members and contributors
- Elected and appointed role-holders (RAC members, Delegates, Treasury Signers, WG Leads)
- Contractors and vendors acting on behalf of the DAO
- Any person participating in DAO-affiliated forums, channels, or events

2. Purpose

The DAO's ability to govern effectively depends on the trust, integrity, and good faith of its participants. This Code of Conduct:

- Establishes the minimum standards of behavior expected in the DAO
- Protects the safety and dignity of all participants
- Provides a clear and consistent basis for addressing misconduct
- Supports the DAO's Core Principles of Transparency and Accountability as defined in the Charter

3. Core Standards

3.1 Good Faith Participation

All participants must:

- Act honestly and in good faith in all governance activities
- Represent their intentions and affiliations accurately
- Not misuse governance processes for personal gain at the expense of the DAO or community
- Not attempt to manipulate, coerce, or deceive other participants

3.2 Respectful Conduct

All participants must:

- Treat others with dignity and respect regardless of background, identity, or opinion

- Engage in disagreement through reasoned argument, not personal attacks
- Not engage in harassment, intimidation, or threatening behavior
- Not engage in hate speech, discrimination, or derogatory language targeting individuals or groups

3.3 Transparency and Disclosure

All participants must:

- Disclose relevant affiliations, financial interests, or conflicts when participating in governance decisions in a decision-making role — mandatory disclosure obligations and their scope are defined in the Conflict of Interest Policy §2; Governance Participants exercising ordinary voting rights are encouraged but not required to disclose
- Accept the applicable KYC/AML compliance process before receiving any compensation or other disbursement from the DAO (see Contributor Compensation Policy §3.5 and Operating Agreement §10.4)
- Not impersonate other participants or misrepresent their identity or role
- Not act under multiple identities (Sybil behavior) to artificially amplify influence

3.4 Protection of DAO Resources

All participants must:

- Not misappropriate, waste, or redirect DAO resources for unauthorized purposes
- Not exploit governance processes or smart contract vulnerabilities to extract unauthorized value
- Report known vulnerabilities responsibly through the disclosure process defined in the Source Code Stewardship Policy §6

3.5 Confidentiality

Where participants are granted access to non-public DAO information (e.g., pre-disclosure of security issues, legal matters, pending proposals under embargo):

- Such information must not be shared outside authorized channels
- Such information must not be used for personal financial gain (e.g., trading on non-public information)

4. Prohibited Conduct

The following constitute serious violations:

- Harassment — repeated unwanted contact, intimidation, or abuse targeting any participant
- Discrimination — treating participants differently based on protected characteristics including but not limited to race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, religion, disability, or nationality
- Bribery or vote-buying — offering or accepting compensation in exchange for governance votes
- Collusion — coordinating with others to manipulate governance outcomes in ways that harm the DAO or circumvent its processes
- Sybil attacks — using multiple wallets or identities to gain disproportionate influence
- Fraud — submitting false information in proposals, grant applications, or role applications
- Doxxing — publicly revealing private information about participants without consent
- Retaliation — taking adverse action against participants who report misconduct or raise governance concerns in good faith
- Selective obstruction — a documented pattern of delaying governance process steps or selectively enforcing rules without documented grounds, when carried out by a role-holder in the exercise of their duties (see RAC Mandate §11A; Treasury Signers Rules §9A)

5. Reporting Misconduct

5.1 How to Report

Misconduct may be reported to:

- The RAC via the designated reporting channel
- Any Working Group Lead (for WG-internal conduct issues)
- The Governance & Legal Working Group for serious violations

Reports should include:

- Description of the conduct
- Date(s) and context
- Evidence where available
- Identity of the reporting party (reports may be made confidentially where circumstances require)

5.2 Confidentiality of Reports

- The identity of reporters will be protected where disclosure would place the reporter at risk
- Reporters acting in good faith are protected against retaliation (see Section 4)
- Anonymous reports will be considered but may limit the DAO's ability to investigate or act

5.3 Good Faith Reporting

This policy does not protect reports made in bad faith to harm another participant. Deliberate false reports constitute a violation of this Code.

6. Enforcement

6.1 Responsible Body

The RAC is responsible for reviewing reported violations involving role-holders, elected members, and Working Group participants.

The Governance & Legal Working Group may assist with investigation where instructed by the RAC.

6.2 Review Process

Upon receiving a report:

1. The RAC acknowledges receipt within 5 business days
2. The RAC conducts a proportionate investigation
3. The accused participant is given an opportunity to respond before a determination is made
4. The RAC issues a finding and recommended remedy within 30 days of acknowledgement
5. Serious violations (bribery, fraud, harassment) may result in immediate suspension of DAO access pending investigation. An interim suspension requires the emergency decision threshold (§6.3), does not reach the vote (§6.3), and lapses automatically on the earlier of the finding under step 4 or expiry of the 30-day period in that step. It may not be renewed on the same report

6.3 Sanctions

Sanctions are proportionate to the severity and circumstances of the violation. Available remedies include:

- Warning — formal written notice
- Temporary suspension — restricted participation in DAO spaces and processes for a defined period
- Removal from role — for role-holders, a recommendation of removal, put to the community under Elections & Role Governance Policy §10; this Code confers no power to remove a role holder

- Permanent exclusion — barred from participation in DAO-affiliated spaces and processes
- Referral to legal authorities — for conduct that may constitute criminal behavior
- Clawback recommendation — for grant or compensation recipients found to have committed fraud, a governance proposal to recover funds

No sanction under this Code reaches the vote. No finding, sanction or interim measure affects a Governance Participant's eligible voting power, their entitlement to cast a vote, or the counting of a vote cast. "Participation in DAO spaces and processes" means forums, calls, working groups, repositories, communication channels, grant and compensation processes, and candidacy for role — not voting. The franchise is not this policy's to remove: Charter §12.1 entrenches XRD and LSU as eligible voting power sources for all DAO governance votes, and Charter §13 makes a conflicting policy provision void to that extent, so a sanction reaching the vote would be unenforceable rather than severe.

This governs sanctions under this Code only, and does not address any suspension of voting rights on compliance grounds (Compliance Operations Policy §2.4), which is reserved for legal advice.

Decision thresholds. A warning or temporary suspension is decided under the RAC's routine decision rule (DAO Parameters §5.1). Permanent exclusion, and any interim measure under §6.2 step 5, require the emergency decision threshold (DAO Parameters §5.2) — the bar at which the framework fences its most serious powers.

6.4 Appeal

Any participant subject to a sanction may appeal the determination by:

- Submitting a written appeal to the RAC within 14 days of the finding
- Requesting that the appeal be reviewed by a panel that excludes any RAC members involved in the original finding

Escalation is the appellant's right, not the RAC's judgement. An appellant may instead elect, in the notice of appeal, to have the appeal determined under the Dispute Resolution & Arbitration Policy rather than by the RAC. That election is not refusable. The previous rule made escalation available only where the RAC decided it could not form an impartial panel — a judgement the RAC made about itself, in permissive terms, on an appeal against its own finding.

Escalation is automatic where an impartial panel cannot be formed. A panel excluding every member involved in the original finding must still meet the non-recused floor in DAO Parameters §5.1. Where it cannot — which at the five-seat minimum is the ordinary case, since a finding carried by three members leaves at most two — the appeal proceeds under the Dispute Resolution & Arbitration Policy without any further decision by the RAC.

Permanent exclusion carries an appeal whether or not one is brought. Where no appeal is filed within 14 days, a permanent exclusion is nonetheless referred for determination under the Dispute Resolution & Arbitration Policy before it takes effect. The severest sanction the DAO can impose is not left resting on a single body's finding because the person it was imposed on did not, or could not, respond.

6.5 Sanctions Enforceability and KYC Identity Binding

The practical enforceability of sanctions depends on whether the sanctioned participant has completed KYC verification:

- KYC-verified participants (compensated contributors, grant recipients, UBO Governance Participants): Sanctions are bound to the participant's verified identity and are not limited to specific wallet addresses or pseudonyms. A sanctioned individual may not circumvent a suspension or exclusion by operating under a different wallet or account. Any future KYC verification submitted by a sanctioned individual will be cross-checked against the sanctions record.
- Non-KYC participants (ordinary Governance Participants operating pseudonymously): Sanctions are wallet- and account-based. The DAO acknowledges this limits enforceability. Where serious sanctions are imposed on a pseudonymous participant, the RAC may require KYC verification as a condition of any future grant application, compensated engagement, or formal governance role, effectively making KYC the gateway to continued participation beyond ordinary token voting.

The RAC maintains a sanctions record alongside the KYC register. KYC providers engaged by the DAO must be instructed to flag applicants appearing on the sanctions record.

7. Scope of Spaces

This Code applies to conduct in:

- DAO governance forums and interfaces
- Working Group meetings and communications
- DAO-affiliated social channels (Discord, Telegram, etc.)
- Public events and calls organized under DAO auspices
- On-chain governance participation

8. Relationship to Other Policies

This Code operates alongside:

- Conflict of Interest Policy — for disclosure and recusal obligations
- Dispute Resolution & Arbitration Policy — for escalated conflicts between participants, and for reports of misconduct by a RAC member (see below)

- Working Group Charters — which may define additional conduct standards for WG members

Reporting misconduct by the RAC itself. The channels in §5.1 route reports to the RAC and to the Governance & Legal Working Group, which is not constituted at launch. Neither is an appropriate recipient of a report about a RAC member. Such a report is therefore made under the Dispute Resolution & Arbitration Policy, which is available from ratification and does not depend on the RAC accepting jurisdiction over itself. This is the structured channel for reporting governance-integrity violations by those in positions of authority that Charter §7 provides for; no separate ethics-reporting policy exists, and none is required for that promise to be met.

In the event of conflict between this Code and another policy, the more specific policy applies within its defined scope.

9. Amendments

Amendment procedures and classification requirements are defined in the Governance Maintenance & Upgrade Framework.
